$20

They're separated in age by a few decades, but Joshua Abelow and Gene Beery really seem like bosom buddies—two artist rascallions whose prankish work often barely veils darker feelings. This modestly priced book—an edition of 1,000—features install shots of their work overlaid with Beery's typically bizarre texts. It's also a nice little aperitif for the show the two are having together next month at Bodega on the Lower East Side.
